PREFACE

This document represents the work of many people and is an effort to fill a gap in the occupational information available to the teachers and counselors of the area. It is the result of an in-service training program in which an effort was made to provide occupational counselors with first hand industrial experiences. As a result the counselors who participated in the program visited all the firms listed in this publication and collected the data which are presented here.

The counselors who gave of their time to conduct the survey, and especially the leadership work done by Taylor Hemler, County Guidance Coordinator, are to be highly commended. Further, the working relationship established with Dr. Auchard of San Jose State, who was responsible for teaching the extension course which resulted in this document, represents a recognition on the part of higher education, as well as local districts, that experiences of this kind have significance equal to that of more formal course work in terms of professional growth.

The fact that occupational counselors from every high school in the County, plus several from Monterey County, representatives from the State Department of Employment, and the State Department of Vocational Rehabilitation, were participants in the project is an indication of the breadth of interest. It is also significant that almost 300 firms participated in the project by welcoming the counselors, giving their time answering questions, and providing the data compiled and published here.

The data were processed and compiled by the County Data Processing Department who worked in close cooperation with the teachers.

It must be remembered, however, that the data are only as accurate as the information provided by the industrial personnel, and is, therefore, subject to the normal errors encountered in research of this type. The data are also timely and must, therefore, be maintained on a current basis. Wage rates, hours, working conditions, etc., are continuously fluctuating and are accurate only at the time the survey is taken.

Neither is this a complete list of all the employers or employees in the area. It represents only those firms who were visited by the counselors and who cooperated in the project. Subsequent revisions will attempt to fill in the gaps.

In this respect it is hoped that this project will only be the initial effort. Plans are already under consideration which propose to up-date the information regularly.

On the basis of this information, and complimentary publications such as the "Apprenticeship Handbook" and the "Central Coast Manpower Survey", the inquiring student or counselor should be able to determine more rational occupational alternatives, and therefore, enhance the entire occupational decision making process.

A final word of caution. The data presented here are complex, and time spent reviewing the explanatory sections before each Chapter will help the user avoid considerable difficulties.

BACKGROUND

This Handbook is the result of research done by a number of counselors in an in-service workshop which was sponsored by the Central Coast Counties Industry-Education Council at Cabrillo Junior College. The workshop was offered as an extension course by San Jose State College under the direction of Dr. Denny Auchard.

The purposes of the workshop included:

1. Improve vocational guidance in secondary schools.
2. To develop better liaison between business, industry and education.
3. To provide practical knowledge of employment conditions and personnel practices through observations in the business and industry setting.
4. To develop materials and improved techniques for using such materials in secondary schools.

The counselors participating in this project felt that the information obtained through their research would be a valuable addition to the inventory of existing occupational information. Therefore, as a part of this workshop the formal publication of the results was undertaken, and is represented by this document.

LIMITATIONS OF THE DATA

The industries located in Santa Cruz and Northern Monterey County were divided among the participants of the workshop. Each counselor surveyed approximately ten of the industries identified. Based on the visits of the counselors to the various firms, the data were collected according to a predetermined format. As with any research of this type the data compiled are subject to the normal errors of research, and the validity of the information given to the counselors by the industrial personnel.

It is not necessarily desirable to list the precise wage rate for each occupation in each firm, therefore, wage rates which are given in this document represent the range of wages paid for that occupation at the time of the survey. Wage rates are highly susceptible to fluctuation and, therefore, a range of wages paid is considered to be adequate for purposes of this survey. It must be kept in mind, however, that any of the data included in this document are subject to fluctuation and are valid only at the time of the survey.

USAGE

Employment outlook has been coded according to the following scheme:

- G - Great Need
- O - Occasional Need
- L - Little Need
- D - Decreasing Need

Section 2 (Blue) is an alphabetical listing of businesses.

To the left of each firm is the business code of that firm by which that firm is identified in subsequent data. To the right of the firm name is the person who is the occupational contact person for that firm. In some cases only a first name or nickname is used, however, this is the way the person is identified within the firm and, therefore, this is the name which is used in this document. For instance, a person who would be interested in knowing the contact person at Mel's Drug Store and who would subsequently phone the drug store for further information would ask for "Melvin" and not for Mr. so and so or Mrs. so and so because this is the way this individual is identified within his firm.

Section 3 (Pink) is an alphabetical listing of occupations.

To the left of each occupation title there is a given code number which should be of particular significance to the user for future cross reference purposes.

To the immediate right of each occupational title is the skill level or levels entitled (Occupational Group), in which this occupation would be classified. These occupational groups are based on the major occupational group breakout of the Dictionary of Occupational Titles. To the right of the skill level is the educational requirement normally required for employment in this occupation.

Here again occupations are listed by their common trade name which can be further defined by using the Dictionary of Occupational Titles. In some cases unfamiliar job titles will have to be looked up in the Dictionary of Occupational Titles for clarification, however, all of the jobs which were found in the survey area are listed by job title in this section.

Section 4 (Cherry) is a list of employment opportunities by occupation. This section is somewhat complex and, therefore, will require an understanding of the procedures which must be used to analyze this section.

In order to find a given occupation in this section the user must first locate the occupational title in Section 3. Having once located the occupational title he must then note the occupational group and entry level. Based on occupational group and entry level he then will refer to the skill level marked in bold black type at the top of each page in Section 4. For instance, a student who was interested in information regarding the occupational area of Maintenance Mechanic would first locate Maintenance Mechanic in the Pink Section. He would then note that Maintenance Mechanic falls in the SKILLED and SEMI-SKILLED area. This would refer him to the SKILLED and SEMI-SKILLED section of the Cherry Section of the manual. He would then also note that entry into this occupation can be achieved at three levels, HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATION NOT REQUIRED, HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATION, and JUNIOR COLLEGE OR SPECIAL TRAINING. Each skill level in Section 4 is subdivided into these entry level categories. He would then find that within each of these educational categories the occupation is listed in alphabetical order. Therefore, if the individual were interested in Maintenance Mechanic, and if he were not a high school graduate, he would look in the "Skilled, semi-skilled, high school graduation not required" section, and information for Maintenance Mechanic at that level would be listed to be found on Page 10 of the Cherry Section. By then locating the occupational title he would first note, the sex of the persons most normally employed in that area, the wage rate would be given, whether or not previous experience or training were required, and whether or not he would have to join a union. It would also indicate under the employment outlook column that there is an occasional need for this type of person on the short term outlook and no prediction for the long term outlook. He may also then at that point refer to the employer reference number and locate the firm employing that job classification in Sections 5 and 6. He would make his referral by use of the employer reference number.

Section 5 is a listing of employment opportunities by employer. Here each firm is listed by business code and by name of firm, and within that firm all the occupational classifications which they employ are listed. Again, the user can identify the sex normally employed in this occupational classification as given by that employer, the wage range, whether or not previous experience or training is required, whether or not union affiliation is necessary, and the employment outlook of the given occupation. Using the previous example, the user would now be on Page 19 of the Buff Section, Business #309, Lass Molded Fibre Products Company, and within that firm would find Maintenance Mechanic. Should the user then desire to pursue the matter further he would refer to Section 6 using the business number.

Section 6 is a list of the businesses with reference codes in sequential order. The data in this section are self-explanatory. The previously cited user, who had been through Sections 4 and 5, would now turn to Section 6, find Employer #309, on Page 5 of the Green Section, and find the name, address, phone number and contact personnel of the Lass Molded Fibre Products Company.

SECTION 2 - ALPHABETICAL LISTING OF BUSINESSES

Left hand column is a coding of businesses for cross reference purposes.

Middle column is the alphabetical listing of businesses.

Right hand column is the contact personnel for further information at that given business.

SECTION 4 - EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITIES

REPRESENTED BY OCCUPATION

This section is broken into five major subsections based on the occupational group; UNSKILLED, SKILLED and SEMI-SKILLED, SERVICE, CLERICAL and SALES, and PROFESSIONAL and MANAGERIAL. Each subsection is further broken down by educational entry levels of HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATION NOT REQUIRED, HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATION, JUNIOR COLLEGE OR SPECIAL TRAINING, or COLLEGE DEGREE. In order to find a given occupational title within this section, and to determine which occupational group and educational entry level subsection that this given occupational title will fall under, it is advised that the user refer to Section 3 to find this information. Within each of these subsection breakouts the first column denotes the occupational title which is in alphabetical order of that subsection. Immediately below the occupational title is an employer's reference list which will have one or many numbers following it. Each number denotes the cross reference employer's business number that has been assigned to it for this purpose.

The second column is the assigned occupational title code cross reference number.

The third column denotes the sex most normally employed in that occupation.

The fourth, fifth and sixth columns are devoted to the mode of salaries for that occupation.

Column seven indicates whether or not there is any previous experience required.

Column eight indicates whether or not there is any special training required.

Column nine indicates whether or not the job falls under a given union at the businesses interviewed in this survey.

Column ten indicates the short term employment outlook.

Column eleven indicates the long term employment outlook.

SECTION 5 - EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITIES

REPRESENTED BY EMPLOYER

The businesses in this section are in sequential order by their assigned reference code numbers, though within each code series group, such as the 100, 200, 300, etc. series, the businesses are in alphabetical order.

The businesses under the 100 series are mainly located in the Monterey area. The ones in the rest of the series are dispersed throughout the Santa Cruz County area. For each given business there is a listing of the majority of the jobs that are employed by that given firm.

Similar to Section 4 when each occupation is listed there is information given on the occupational code number, the sex normally employed, the wage ranges, whether or not previous experience is required, whether or not special training is required, whether or not joining a union is required, and the employment outlook.

Abbreviations used in this section are:

- OJT - On Job Training
- G - Great Need
- O - Occasional Need
- L - Limited or Little Need
- D - Decreasing

SECTION 6 - LIST OF BUSINESSES IN ORDER OF SEQUENTIAL CODING

The businesses fall in an alphabetical order within the 100 series, and again in the 200, 300, 400 and 500 series.

These separate series will be of no appreciable significance to the user other than those falling in the 100 series most typically are in the Monterey and Salinas area. It is also noted that the majority of businesses in the Watsonville area fall in the 400 series, and the extreme northern section of Santa Cruz County most normally will fall in the 500 series.

The left hand column is the individual business cross reference number. The second column is the name of the business surveyed in this project. The third column indicates the business address and phone number. The fourth column indicates the contact personnel for further information at the given business.
